Background

When Appigo began considering different options to add support for Microsoft Exchange tasks, the development team realized it could give users the best customized experience by writing a brand new app. Todo Exchange Tasks uses a significant amount of technology taken from Appigo's original Todo app, which has proven itself extremely stable after four years of development.

Todo, which has over one and a half million downloads, has historically been the most connected to-do list app available on the App Store with task synchronization support for: Todo Online, Appigo Sync (Outlook/iCal), Dropbox, iCloud, and Toodledo.

Users of Todo Exchange Tasks now benefit from the stability of the original Todo technology and get an interface designed specifically to mimic all the features they are used to seeing in Outlook/Exchange.

About Appigo

Appigo was founded in 2008 by Calvin Gaisford and Boyd Timothy, both Computer Science Alumni from Brigham Young University. Interested in working on anything Apple and Mac related, they saw the perfect opportunity as Apple opened up the ability for developers to write apps for the iPhone. On July 11, 2008, the day the iTunes App Store opened for business, Appigo released two brand new apps: AccuFuel™ Fuel Efficiency Tracker and Todo® Task Manager. Appigo has since released several other iOS-based apps, including the successful Corkulous™ Idea Board, a digital corkboard for the iPad and iPhone.
